

Our Work with Adults

Our work with adults is where we began – for 20 years we've been providing innovative, engaging products and services that help adults manage money.

We have worked with all sorts of groups, and produced training and advice for all sorts of people. Tailored initiatives have in the past included working with people in prisons, through churches, housing association residents, members of credit unions and staff of charities, and local councils. We believe that staying on top of your money really is for everybody.

We like to get out and about and offer workshops to people face-to-face. We have two standard training packages which can be tailored to the demographics of the audience. Both are delivered in a relaxed and interactive format – making money matters interesting and nonthreatening.

Check out our website for articles with a wide range of advice and information written in easily digestible chunks. Also on offer is our Budgetbuilder – the essential online tool for building a budget, and a Money Manual available to download and to order in printed form.

Don't hesitate to get in touch about our Adult & Industry programmes – Hello@themoneycharity.org.uk.

*For industry, we can provide a consultancy service to help you develop your own financial capability offering. For this, check out the Our Work With Industry factsheet.*
