1. Striking Numbers

Arising from the pandemic and current cost of living crisis

During the pandemic, health, economic and policy impacts have interacted with each other. The UK is also currently facing a worsening cost of living crisis, with rising inflation arguably linked to pandemic-related economic disruption. Following are some striking numbers that have emerged in the last few weeks:

- 22%: The percentage by which household spending fell during the first two quarters of the pandemic, to reach its lowest point. However, spending quickly recovered in the following quarter by 19.6% and had almost returned to pre-coronavirus levels after two years. Contrastingly, during the 2008 financial crisis, household spending reached its lowest level in the fifth quarter after the initial shock, after falling by 6%. Household spending then took over five years to recover to pre-crisis levels (ONS).
- 3.2 million: the number of UK adults who have missed some form of major payment over the past two years (The Mortgage Lender).
- 11%: the proportion of StepChange's clients who said that increases in the cost of living were now their main reason for debt. This is now the fourth most commonly cited unique reason among new clients.
- 31% of UK adults with a credit card don't pay it off completely every month (The Mortgage Lender).
- 32%: the proportion of people who feel that it will still take more than a year for life to return to normal after the pandemic. 12% of people thought that life would never return to normal. Disabled people were more likely than non-disabled people to feel that life would never return to normal. People who could afford an unexpected £850 expense were more likely than those who couldn't to feel that life had already returned to normal (ONS).
- 16% of people who said they could afford an unexpected expense of £850 also said they were spending more time outside due to the pandemic, whereas only 10% of people who couldn't afford the expense said they were spending more time outdoors. This means that people who cannot afford an unexpected expense are less likely to spend more time outdoors, perhaps due to fear of becoming ill with Covid. People unable to afford an unexpected expense were also less likely to report walking or cycling more (11% of those unable to afford an expense compared with 18% of those who were able to afford one), and working from home (13% compared with 23%) (ONS).

2. Personal Debt in the UK

Total UK Personal Debt

People in the UK owed £1,773.2 billion at the end of February 2022. This is up by £66.4 billion from £1,706.8 billion at the end of February 2021, an extra £1,255.32 per UK adult over the year.

Type of Personal Debt	Total Personal Debt £ billion	Per Household £	Per Adult £
Secured (Mortgages)	£1,573.8 billion	£56,626	£29,755
Unsecured Consumer Debt	£199.5 billion	£7,177	£3,771
Of which, Credit Card Debt	£59.5 billion	£2,141	£1,125
Grand Total (Feb 2022)	£1,773.2 billion	£63,803	£33,526

The average total debt per household, including mortgages, was £63,803 and per adult was £33,526, around 107.9% of average earnings. This is up from the revised £33,410 a month earlier.

Based on February 2022 numbers, the UK's total interest payments on personal debt over a 12-month period would have been £45,370 million, an average of £124 million per day. The average annual interest per household would have been £1,632 and per person £858, 2.76% of average earnings.

According to the Office for Budget Responsibility's March 2022 forecast, household debt of all types is forecast to rise from £2,019 billion in 2020 to £2,447 billion in 2025. This would make the average total household debt £85,906 (assuming household numbers track ONS population projections).

Consumer Credit Debt

At the end of February 2022, outstanding consumer credit lending was £199.5 billion, rising by £1.6 billion on the revised total for the previous month and £746 million more than in February 2021. Within the total, outstanding credit card debt came to £59.5 billion, an increase of 6.31% (£3.5 billion) in the year to February 2022. Credit card debt averaged £2,141 per household and £1,125 per adult.

A credit card on the average interest rate would take 25 years and 2 months to repay, making only the legal minimum repayments (interest plus 1% of the outstanding balance) each month. The minimum repayment in the first month would be £56 but would reduce each month. If £56 were paid every month, the debt would be cleared in 5 years and 1 month.

In March 2022 the average price of unleaded petrol increased by 15.7ppl to 163.8 ppl.

- This meant it cost £81.90 to fill a 50 litre unleaded tank, £7.85 more than last month.

The average price of diesel increased by 22.2ppl to 173.8ppl.

- This meant it cost £86.90 to fill a 50 litre diesel tank, £11.10 more than last month.

4. Spending and Loans

The Cost of Credit

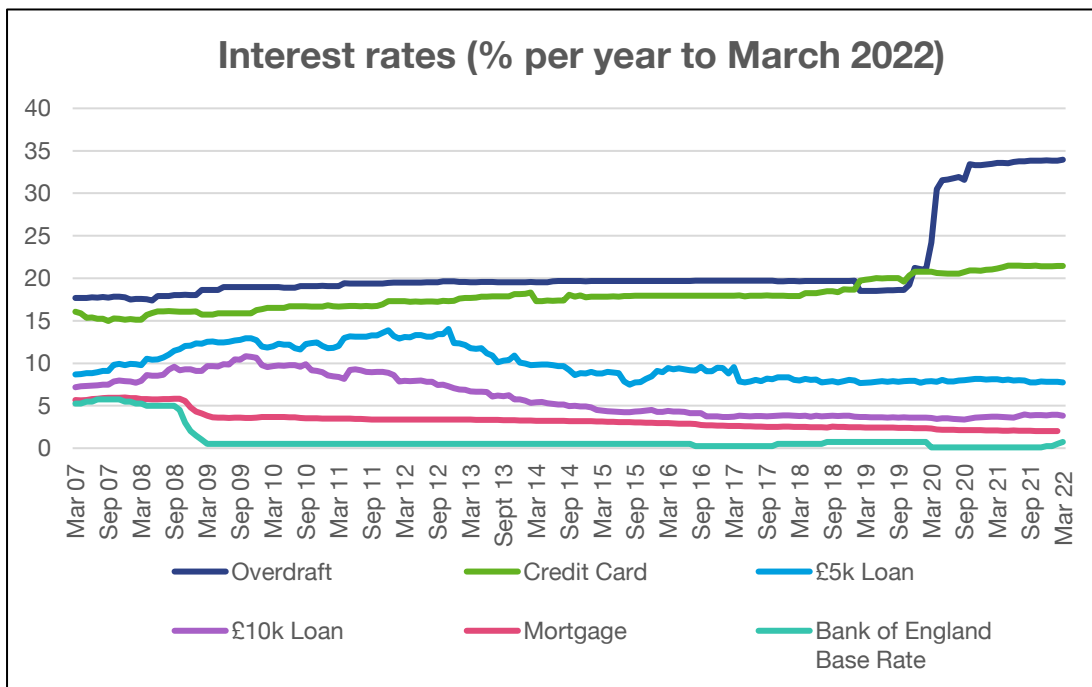

The average interest rate on credit card lending bearing interest was 21.44% in March 2022. This was 20.69% above the Bank of England Base Rate of 0.75%. (The Bank rate was raised from 0.50% to 0.75% on 17 March 2022).

UK Finance figures show that 54.6% of credit card balances were bearing interest in January 2022.

In March 2022, the average APR for a £5,000 personal loan was 7.74%, according to the Bank of England. For a £10,000 loan it was 3.84%, while the average rate for an overdraft was 33.95%.

As shown in the chart, the gap between credit card, overdraft and other interest rates has widened substantially since 2008. The dramatic increase in overdraft rates in 2020 was due to new FCA overdraft rules, which banned high fixed charges penalising accidental and short-duration overdrafts, but at the cost of a rise in the average overdraft rate.

Why overdraft and credit card rates are so high when the bank base rate remains so low is an open question.

5. Savings and Pensions

Savings

The average interest rate for an instant access savings account was 0.15% in March 2022. For a cash ISA, the rate was 0.42%, down from 0.13% a year ago.

In Q4 2021, households saved an average of 6.5% of their post-tax income, including benefits, down from 13.5% (revised) in Q4 2020 and also the record 23.4% (revised) in Q2 2020, which was substantially higher than the previous peaks in the late 1970s and early 1990s. From 2000 to 2015, the savings rate fluctuated mostly within the 7-10% range, with the most recent pre-Covid peak being 12.0% (revised) in Q1 2010. If someone on the average salary saved 6.5% of their income in an average instant access savings account for a year, they would receive £2.43 in interest after tax. If they saved it in an average cash ISA, they would receive £8.51.

It would take 26 years for someone on the average salary, saving the average amount per household every year in an average instant access savings account, to afford the average first-time buyer deposit. If they saved into a cash ISA at the same rate it would take 25 years.

In 2020/2021, according to the Family Resources Survey, 35% of UK adults had either no savings or less than £1,500 in savings. This became 48% for households with an income of under £200 a week.
