The workshop includes a range of activities, a chance to debate and discuss, and relevant takeaways for the students. The Post 16 Money workshop is an essential way to improve students' confidence and skills in managing their finances.

Our evaluation data is externally managed and collected before and after each of our workshops to allow us to effectively measure the impact of workshops on student's skills, knowledge and confidence related to managing money.

Our feedback shows:

- Before the workshop, 63% of students agreed to some level that they found the thought of taking out a student loan daunting. This dropped dramatically after the workshop, with the majority (58%) switching to saying they didn't find it daunting.
- Before the workshop 75% of students were unsure or didn't have a clue what APR stood for. After the presentation 61% were confident they knew what it stood for.
- Before the workshop only 36% of students were confident they could create a budget. After the workshop this rose to 68%.

"I think that seeing this workshop will change how I manage money in the future because I will be more sensible with spending and setting priorities". Matt Davidson, year 14 student Carrickfergus Grammar School

"The external speakers have more knowledge about subjects that I am unable to discuss. I thought that the section "about credit and APR" was particularly good." Karen Turner, teacher Bolton College
